Meals on a School Bus

Feed My People adapted its meal program to reach kids at home

When area schools made the difficult decision to have kids move from the classroom to online learning, Feed My People (FMP) worked alongside the Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls School Districts to ensure kids would not go hungry while learning from home. We were proud to help fill the meal gap for vulnerable students and their families. Since then, 1500 meal bags have been distributed weekly to kids.

In addition to distribution at the schools, FMP volunteers, staff, and school employees have climbed aboard a school bus every Thursday to deliver bagged meals to kids at designated stops so transportation would not be a barrier to them having access to the food they need.

Amanda Parkinson, FMP Development Specialist was at one of the weekly food distributions and stated that what impacted her the most was at one stop, a young boy, waiting on his bike, under the school awning, waived at the bus driver and he waved back. They recognized each other after having done the same wave in previous weeks. The young boy took two breakfast and two lunch bags from the school, one each for himself and a sibling, and stuffed them into his backpack. He then placed two Weekend Kids' Meal bags carefully onto each handlebar. Balancing all of that, he rode away in the hot, July sun. It stuck with Amanda as a stark picture of the urgency we must have to ensure no matter what their circumstances no child goes hungry.

In addition to the school bus route, weekly distributions at designated Chippewa Falls and Eau Claire schools offered another grocery pickup option for entire families. Volunteers also delivered food boxes to Headstart families for our youngest learners so that transportation barriers did not prevent them from getting the help needed.

The entire summer Weekend Kids' Meals program was graciously sponsored by Markquart Motors and supported by the area school districts and bus companies. We are grateful for their partnership to ensure every child has safe, healthy access to meals.

Thank you

A Note From Feed My People's New Executive Director: Nancy Renkes

Joining a new organization during normal times can be unnerving. Joining a new one during a pandemic is full of challenges.

I joined Feed My People Food Bank in the middle of COVID-19, and in my brief time here I have witnessed firsthand the pride and compassion that people feel for this community. I have seen how much you all care about hungry people. I have been amazed at the dedication of our volunteers and am truly blessed by the moral and financial support our community gives to us daily.

I am so proud of the staff who every day figure out how to get food to hundreds of families in need, while keeping everyone healthy and safe. Lately here at the food bank we have been using the word "pivot" a lot. It seems that each and every day there are new challenges, expanded roles, and changing priorities that we must quickly turn to meet. Not only are we pivoting to meet the increased need, our partners have pivoted to continue serving their guests in safe environments at food pantries, meal sites, and more.

Hunger Action Month is coming up in September, which is a nationwide campaign to mobilize the public to take action against hunger. We hope you will join us in our efforts to share with the community the issue of food insecurity and spread the word on how to ensure that people in our community have access to the food they need to live a happy, healthy life.

I know it is difficult for us to get together right now, but I look forward to when we can bring you to see our new expansion and share with you an update on our work in person. Until then, please reach out to me with any questions, concerns, or just to connect.

In gratitude,

Community Perspective

Deb Lewis, a partnership coordinator at Lakeshore Elementary, volunteered all summer at FMP's Pop-Up Pantries.

When school moved online due to Wisconsin's Stay-At-Home order, a big concern was how to help families with food insecurity at Lakeshore and in the community. After receiving an email about a Pop-Up Pantry Feed My People was going to start at our Lakeshore parking lot every Friday, I asked if I could help, and the answer was yes. The school district crossing guards would be directing traffic, but people were needed to distribute the food. Ten of us showed up on Friday, March 20 to help, and we haven't stopped since. Volunteers come from throughout our district: partnership coordinators, teachers, support staff, cooks, and more.

The ability to help others is what drives us. Whether it's rain or shine, or sweltering heat, we come. Even though the distribution begins at 2:30 p.m. people are lined up in their cars beginning at 12:30 p.m. Everyone is appreciative and kind. There is joy and shout-outs from our school families when they recognize a district employee. Their smiles are so broad. Sometimes there are tears from families who are grateful beyond words for the food, and when that happens, we have tears as well. How I wish we could give out hugs, but instead we give thanks that they are there, along with encouragement to please come again next Friday. We are exhausted by the end, having served an average of over 200 households, but it is good exhaustion. It is good for our souls. It is evident that food insecurity is real and how important it is that Feed My People is helping to alleviate it.

Agencies Are Our Heroes

Covid-19 has produced unprecedented challenges for FMP's 200+ hunger-relief programs. While many programs thought they may have to close initially, most have remained open and many are doing more than ever to serve the hungry in their communities.

FMP has worked to support our partners in many ways:

- Support with creating curbside and drive-thru distribution models to ensure safety
- Sourcing, packing and delivering pre-packed food boxes
- Additional delivery routes to support increased distribution throughout west central Wisconsin
- Weekly agency calls to share information and ideas
- FMP's first virtual Agency Gathering
- Management of the WI Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection's (DATCP) COVID-19 Food Security Network Support Grant Support for partners throughout FMP's service area
- Support in planning for backpack distribution through summer and into the fall

"We love being in the food assistance network with Feed My People. They have been a true support and partner during these challenging times." - Barb Schweig, Hayward Community Food Shelf

Racing to Meet the Need During COVID-19

New challenges require new solutions

"My husband is too embarrassed to come because he just lost his job. If it wasn't for you I wouldn't know what to do. I just want to say thank you to everyone who donates and works so hard to allow us to have groceries," said a mother of two at a drive-thru Pop-Up Food Pantry this July in Chippewa Falls.

Feed My People (FMP) operates under the belief that no one should go hungry. When the worldwide pandemic reached into the quiet corners of where we live, work, and play the food bank met its biggest challenge yet. Situations involving those who have never had to get help with food before have become too common. In March and April, the warehouse broke records regularly with how many pounds of food were delivered to hunger-relief programs in any given day. 4.7 million pounds of food has already been distributed between January and July, compared to approximately 7 million pounds total in the entire calendar year of 2019.

One of the first actions taken to get ahead of this need and to do so safely, was to expand FMP's Pop-Up Food Pantry program. In past years it's been a predominantly summer-only program to quickly distribute fresh produce coming in from local growers. Last year it became a monthly

Our expanded drive-thru Pop-Up Food Pantry program has had 7,276 household visits in Augusta, Cadott, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, Eleva/Strum, Fairchild, and Fall Creek from March through July.

MORE DAIRY

201,222 pounds of milk, butter, and cheese has been distributed this year.

25 NEW PROGRAMS

New outreach programs this year are feeding seniors, kids, and homebound individuals.

Guess what? None of this was possible without you.

Thank you to our community who stepped up to take action against hunger during this challenging time.

program. This March, however, it was expanded into weekly and monthly distribution points throughout Eau Claire and surrounding rural communities like Augusta as a drive-thru stop for families in need of groceries, including meat, dairy, produce, and dry goods.

Of course, none of this came without significant logistical challenges. Emergency bags, for example, have been created so that a variety of dry goods can be packed together by a handful of volunteers and staff in preparation for quick distribution at Pop-Ups and through hunger-relief partners across the region.

There has been no shortage of food coming in the doors, thankfully, and because of the building expansion last summer, FMP has been able to accept this increase from a variety of sources including local restaurants and schools, as well as a Farmers to Families USDA program that shipped pre-packed boxes filled with dairy and meat products from regional producers.

Ever since March, FMP has seen the community come together in unprecedented ways to help beat local hunger. Because of your support, families can receive the food they need. Thank you.

Preparing for what is to come

Thank you to the United Way of the Greater Chippewa Valley, the Eau Claire Community Foundation, area churches and other partners for funding the Feed Our Kids program ensuring that children and youth will have the nutrition they need during uncertain times this fall.

With the support of our community FMP will continue to react to changing circumstances with an unwavering commitment to filling the hunger gap in our community.

Letter from a mother

"As a child I always wondered how some people at the food banks had nicer cars than my parents while we drive by and saw them all lined up to get food, until recently.

"My husband lost his very successful job because of COVID. With three small children, we are struggling. We are struggling to pay for our vehicles, struggling to pay for our house, we are just struggling. I'm crying as I write this because we are one of those people in a nice car. We would've never ever ever dreamt this would happen, but it has. It's so hard to give up what you've worked so hard for. I get those people now. I am one of those people. I know the time might come where we will probably have to sell the things we've worked so hard for, which will be a tough, tough day. But I want you to know how much you guys have helped us out. We are so very, very grateful. I'm hoping we are able to get back on our feet, and as soon as we do, we will continue to give as you have to us. I've been meaning to thank you since the first time I came, but I just haven't been able to come up with the words. Thank you. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts. You guys are all such a blessing."

Luther Lakeside Apartments Gets Special Grocery Delivery Route

An Eau Claire senior subsidized apartment building receives a food delivery every week.

One Friday in late spring at the Lakeshore Pop-Up Food Pantry, a woman arrived to pick up groceries for fifty people. A conversation ensued about that need, and soon after, a new residential food pantry was formed. It turned out that the week before she had dropped off groceries for her grandparents at Luther Lakeside Apartments, and many of the residents there expressed a need for some kind of food delivery as well. Today, a delivery is scheduled weekly so any resident can safely access groceries any time. "I love the pantry. It helps me get by on the weeks I can't make it to the grocery store," shared Rosalie (pictured), during a visit there this August.
